

21st Century Education at NAIS

There are three opportunities to find EdLeader21 at this year's NAIS Annual Conference.

Public-Private Partnerships for System Educational Change

Join Ken Kay (EdLeader21), Paul Miller (NAIS), Clif Mims (Martin Institute for Teaching Excellence), and Chris Thinnes (CFEE at Curtis School) to participate in a shared examination of our strategies to transform our “schools of the future,” strengthen our public-private partnerships, and leverage the vital intersections between these efforts. Participants will be asked to view material before the workshop and can be found at <http://cfee.me/PPP4SEC>.

EdLeader21 Reception & Information Session

We invite you to join us for drinks to learn more about EdLeader21, the nation's first professional learning community for education leaders committed to 21st century learning. EdLeader21 broadens your network of forward-thinking educational colleagues beyond your circle of independent school leaders. EdLeader21 offers the opportunity for independent school leaders to join forces with public education leaders in developing new practices to improve learning for all students. If you are seeking greater opportunities to learn about and collaborate around best practices in educational innovation and to advance your school's progress in becoming a “School of the Future,” join us to learn about all EdLeader21 has to offer independent school leaders. Please RSVP at https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/EdLeader21_RSVP.

Leading Schools into the Future: Strategies for 21st Century School Leaders

Schools of the future must develop genuinely school-wide visions of 21st century learning outcomes. Join Christopher Thinnes (Curtis School), Ken Kay (EdLeader21), and William Taylor (St. George's Independent School), to find out how schools are integrating the 4Cs (collaboration, creativity, communication and critical thinking) school-wide and using the “7 Steps for Becoming a 21st Century School” to lead learning forward.
